NUMB. 3054

THURSDAY DECEMBER 15, 1743.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from France, and another from Holland.

Constantinople, October 28.

OUR Affairs are not at all mended by our Change of Ministers; the new Prime Vizir is very far from having a Capacity equal to his Employment; but he happens to be well with his Brethren the Janizaries, which made it requisite for the Court to raise him to this Employment. As soon as the Shah Nadir was informed that the Porte had set up a new Shah, he said to some of the Officers that were about him, Since the Porte takes the Liberty of making Persian Emperors, I will, sooner than they expect, give an Emperor to the Ottomans. It is observable, that the young Prince we have acknowledged in that Quality, does not seem at all desirous of going to the Army; from an Apprehension, that either our Troops may be beat; or, in case he has any Success, the Porte may make use of it to conclude a good Peace with the Shah Nadir, to which he may prove a Sacrifice. We have daily fresh Advices of the Revolt of the Arabs in the Neighbourhood of Aleppo.

Petersburgh, November 29. His Imperial Highness remains fixed in his Resolution of not parting with a Foot of his Hereditary Countries, in order to compromise Matters with the King of Denmark. The Guaranty of the Duchy of Silesia, as yielded to the King of Prussia by the Treaty of Breslau, with a Promise of supporting his Possession by Force of Arms, in case it should be necessary, has been register'd in the Archives of the Senate; and then the Instrument was deliver'd to the Baron de Mardefelt, his Prussian Majesty's Envoy to this Court, who caused it to be immediately carried by a Courier to Berlin. The 25th of next Month is fixed for the Departure of the Czarina for Moscow, in which Journey she will be accompanied by his Imperial Highness.

Stockholm, November 4. Since Directions were given for putting the Russian Troops into Winter Quarters, it has been found necessary to admit a Part of them into this City; and General Keith has directed them to observe the strictest Discipline, under the severest Penalty, in order to prevent, as far as possible, their having any Disputes with the Towns People. In case the Crown of Denmark persists in its present Demands, it has been resolved to recall the Count de Tessin and the Baron de Palmstierna; and to leave nobody at that Court, but Baron Hopken. His Royal Highness is, at present, occupied in paying his circular Visits to the Senators; who are, every Day, more and more charmed by his obliging Behaviour.

Pesaro, December 2. The Spanish Troops are still in their old Quarters, where they are pretty well served with Provisions, but are in great want of Wood for Firing, and are not a little straitned for Room, which has obliged the Count de Gages to recall part of the Troops he had in his advanced Posts; and, indeed, we expect he will soon retire himself to Civita Castellana.

Bologna, December 3. The main Body of the Austrian Army continue as they did at Rimini. Prince Lobkowitz has still a small Body of Troops at Cattolica, and another, somewhat larger, at Hand, to support them. The Spaniards flatter themselves with the hopes of having, in three Months Time, large supplies of Money, and a Reinforcement of 20 or 30,000 Men; but the Austrians, on the other Hand, are strongly persuaded, that in the Space of three Weeks, they shall be in a Condition to drive their Enemies from their present Posts, and to make all the Reinforcements they expect of very little Signification.

Vienna, December 7. There are daily great Conferences held at Count Staremberg's, in relation to the Plan of the next Campaign. We no longer send either Artillery, or Ammunition into Moravia; but whether this proceeds from a Supposition, that the Fortresses of that Country are already sufficiently provided, or from an Inclination to let a Neighbouring Potentate see we do not wholly distrust his Assurances, is somewhat uncertain. Our last Dispatches from Petersburgh are not so satisfactory as could have been wished; they have brought the Depositions at large of all the State Criminals, translated from the Russian Tongue into the High Dutch. They are very ample, and are distinguished into three Parts. The First contains such as were taken immediately, separately, after they were apprehended, and before they were exposed to the Torture. The Second is made up of what they delivered after they suffered the Question. And the Third is composed of what they declared when they were confronted. Upon the reading these Depositions, the Marquis de Botta has been ordered to attend the Commissioners afresh, and to answer, fully, whatever Demands they may think fit to make; the Queen, our Sovereign, being determined to give the Czarina all just Satisfaction.

Francksort, December 15. His Imperial Majesty is at present in perfect Health, and applies himself to Business with great Assiduity. We expect from Paris, next Week, a great Quantity of Jewels, and rich Cloths, that have been making there, for his Imperial Majesty; particularly, two Suits, which it is said, cost 60,000 Livres. Couriers have arrived within these few Days from Petersburgh, Berlin, and Paris; it is impossible to say what are the Contents of their Dispatches; but this is very certain, that the Imperial Court never appeared in so high Spirits as it does at present; whence it is natural to conjecture, that they have, at least, brought us no bad News.

Extract from the Paris Alamain.

Paris, December 20. 'On Monday in the Evening the 'Duke de Chartres, and Mademoiselle de Conti, went 'to the King's Apartment, when his Majesty was graciously pleased to sign their Contract of Marriage, and 'afterwards, the Ceremony of their Betrothment was 'performed.

'The next Day, about Noon, the Ceremony of the 'Marriage was performed in the Chapel of the Castle 'of Versailles; in the Evening, there was a Concert at 'the Queen's Apartment, and a Royal Entertainment at 'Night; the King gave his Shirt to the Duke de Chartres, and the Queen presented her Shift to the Duchess; 'on Wednesday Morning that Princess received Visits in 'her Bed, and Yesterday the new-married Couple were 'presented to their Majesties, and all the Royal Family.

'The Duke of Orleans has transmitted to the Chamber of Accounts the several Claims for Charges, and 'Pensions which he has created; that, in case of his 'Demise, they may be charged upon, and remain payable out of his Estates.

'We are assured, that the Brest Squadron, consisting 'of 18 Men of War, is at Sea, in its passage to Toulon; where the Spanish Troops arrive every Day.

'The Marquis de Fenelon, his Majesty's Ambassador 'to the States General, is expected here, either To-day 'or To-morrow, upon some Affairs of Importance.

'M. Bussy set out, on the 14th, for London.

'Several Edicts have been lately registered in Parliament, in order to settle the Duties and Taxes requisite 'for the Service of the current Year.

'A Rumour is spread, that the States intend to make 'another Augmentation.

'They write from Marseilles, that they have receiv'd 'very precise Orders for impressing all the Seamen on 'board a Squadron now equiping at Toulon; of which '20 French, and 9 Spanish Ships of the Line, are now 'in the Road.

'Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Lorrain, has 'charged the Count de Gruner with several magnificent 'Presents, designed, for the future Spouse of her Son, 'Prince Charles.

'It is said, that the Princes of the Blood will not 'serve in the next Campaign.

'It is reported, that Messieurs Balincourt, Beranger, 'and Valerie, will be admitted into the Order of the 'Holy Ghost, in the Chapter which will be held at 'Versailles on the 1st Day of the New Year. The King 'has been pleased to give the Cross of the Military Order of St. Lewis to M. de Saulx Tavannes.
